Mission of your Organization (from your group's constitution)

The purpose of this organization is to promote advocacy in the African-American and Latinx (or other underrepresented group) communities, so that underrepresented students can become more informed and better equipped to fight human rights issues. BlueFoot Print Project is a human rights organization that empowers and support those in need by a) bringing awareness to human rights issues through our monthly Human Rights Reports, b) collecting donations that are shipped -- with the help of traveling students -- to impoverished or needy countries, and c) providing academic and professional mentorship to minority students. BFPP will serve Rutgers and its students by giving opportunities to underserved students, as well as creating a space for them where they can grow as community advocates and where the challenges they face as minority activists are addressed. Rutgers values engagement and inclusivity, and we -- as a student organization -- help fulfill that principle by encouraging students to work together to help those in need and to engage with the people and culture of other societies. BFPP is not part of a larger organization.
